

MITCHELL INSTITUTE SENIOR FELLOW

Michael C. Sirak, is a Washington, DC-based writer. Before becoming a freelance author and editor in July 2015, he spent 17 years with leading defense publications including Air Force Magazine, the journal of the Air Force Association in Arlington, VA. In his seven years with Air Force Magazine, he penned numerous articles on USAF operations, planning, policy, and technology. He also ran the publication's website and online news column. Before that, he covered US defense aerospace, missile defense, and law-of-war topics for London-based Jane's Defence Weekly.

He holds a bachelor's degree in German from Ohio University in Athens, OH, and a master's degree in international policy studies from the Monterey (now Middlebury) Institute of International Studies in Monterey, CA

